

MSI

Management and Strategy Institute

Free Business Courses for Public Libraries

The Management and Strategy Institute is proud to offer these training programs for FREE to all public libraries. All business courses offered below are completed 100% online. These training programs are designed to give the student critical business skills. These skills can help increase job prospects and a general understanding of how to be successful in the corporate environment.

Libraries play a vital role in our communities. They serve the general public's information needs through access to books, computers, and educational programs for free or minimal cost. Public libraries also help bridge the digital divide. Libraries help bring access to the internet via public computers and free wifi access. The Management and Strategy Institute is excited to offer these business courses to libraries across the country at no cost.

INSTRUCTIONS:

Students and administrators can access these free programs by going to:

<https://www.msicertified.com/library>

The student can set up their account and begin the program they are interest in by clicking on “Enroll Now” next to the program.